

Indrani Kar

Teacher

Indrani Kar graduated with a Masters in English Literature from India. She has also completed a teaching degree, Bachelor of Education and a certified instructor who has completed a TEFL course from Asheville, North Carolina. She has almost fifteen years of teaching experience amidst diverse age groups starting from elementary, middle, high school and also college undergraduate students. Apart from teaching, she also engages herself in creative writing and had been the school coordinator for The Times of India, Newspaper in Education. She also has her own articles published in English dailies in India. She has been teaching in the Bay Area ever since relocated to California. She has always been an enthusiastic Language Arts instructor and strongly believes she can help her students guide through an exploratory world of literature and writing, and she will be able to create an environment where students will be excited to explore.